The effectiveness of Aripiprazole for ASD

On 6 December 2012, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) granted approval of Otsuka America Pharmaceutical, Inc. for a New Drug Application (NDA) requesting approval for the Expanded Use of Aripiprazole for the treatment of irritability associated with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) in children and adolescents aged 6 years and above.

The approval was based on Phase 2 and Phase 3 clinical trials in children and adolescents with autism spectrum disorder (ASD) aged 6 years and older. The efficacy of Aripiprazole has been demonstrated in these studies, and the drug has been approved for this indication in the United States.

LEY SETS SCENE FOR NEXT THREE YEARS
The election count is over the new Senate has been elected and the Turnbull Government is getting down to business. On the surface it certainly appears to be business as usual for the newly appointed Health Minister Sussan Ley. Andrew Daniels writes.
