Zines Prize for Excellence in Legal Research

Dear Lisa,

As General Editor of the Federal Law Review, I am delighted to advise you that your article 'Can Parliament Confer Plenary Executive Power? The Limitations Imposed by Sections 51 and 52 of the Australian Constitution' has been awarded the Zines Prize for Excellence in Legal Research for the most outstanding article published by the journal in 2016. On behalf of the Dean of the ANU College of Law, Professor Stephen Bottomley, and the editorial team of the journal, I extend our heartiest congratulations.

The Zines Prize is named after one of Australia's most outstanding legal scholars, Professor Leslie Zines, who passed away in 2014. It was established in 2010 and has been awarded annually since then both to honour his work (and now his memory) and to recognise, encourage, and reward excellence in legal scholarship by others.

This year, we were assisted in deciding the prize by a panel of legal scholars comprising Professor James Stellios, Associate Professor Pauline Ridge, Associate Professor Greg Weeks, and Dr Heather Roberts.

As is customary, a prize of $500 is awarded for your achievement. Please contact our Publications Officer, Isabella Wildsmith, at flr.law@anu.edu.au to arrange for a cheque for this amount to be forwarded to you.

The journal and the ANU College of Law will be publicising your receipt of the prize across a range of our media outlets over the next few weeks. If you have any questions, please contact me.

Once again, Lisa, congratulations. We wish you well with all your endeavours and look forward to further submissions from you in the future.

Yours faithfully,
