About ISD2018

(<http://ais.site-ym.com/>)

The the 27th International Conference on Information Systems Development (ISD2018 (<http://www.isd2018.ics.lu.se/>)) was hosted by Lund University, Sweden, August 22-24, 2018.

PREFACE

The ISD2018 Conference provided a forum for research and developments in the field of information systems development. New trends in developing information systems emphasize organizational aspects of their development and social aspects of the final product. The influence of information of systems and technologies on organizational structures, processes and people is paralleled by the impact of new organizational structures and social dynamics on information systems development, functionality and management. The ISD2018 Conference focused on these mutual influences in order to promote research into methodological issues and ways in which information systems designers are transforming organizations and society.

The ISD2018 conference tracks focused on:

- Transforming Society with ISD
- ISD Education
- Human-Computer Interaction
- e-Health
- Information Systems Methodologies and Modelling
- Managing ISD
- Topics in ISD
