Faculty of Medicine, Nursing and Health Sciences
Monash University

Dear Amanda,

Congratulations on your achievement

It is with great delight that we write to commend you on your success as Unit Coordinator of PAR1011 in Semester 1, 2023.

By achieving an overall satisfaction median score of 4.7 or higher, your unit has been recognised not only as one of the top units conducted during Semester 1, 2023 but also one that your students consider to be outstanding.

Your enviable result reflects your commitment to excellence and is a clear demonstration of the effort, creativity and skills applied to ensure your students were immersed in a learning experience filled with opportunity, creativity, and discovery and growth.

We encourage you to share examples of your teaching practice either through opportunities offered by your school, the faculty, or the Monash Education Academy. By sharing your skills, approaches, and experience, you will be making an invaluable contribution to the development of Monash curricula that is both outward looking and learner-centred by design and provides each student with an outstanding learning experience.

On behalf of the Faculty Education Portfolio, we thank you for your dedication to learning and teaching and congratulate you once again on this exceptional achievement.

Yours sincerely,

Professor Claire Palermo
Deputy Dean, Education
